Easter 1916

IN THIS ISSUE

4th installment

Fred Norman of Forestville

Easter time is here again.

The bunnies jump about.

And little Jonie hunts the house.

For a basket he should find.

Now let us

celebrate this day by reading verse, And singing songs and I will close this little verse,

For the bunnies come along.

EASTER GREETINGS

~ 1916 ~

Fred Norman of Forestwell

By Robert R. Stevens -

Fourth Instalment

June was drawing near a close. Fred was planning for the ride to Forestwell
on the thirtieth of June. Fred sold his last paper
and hurried home.
It was not yet noon but he had to prepare for the trip.
He bought a cheap but good looking suit
some shirts, stockings and change of under clothing, new shoes
and a hat.

Then he purchased a carpet bag and started for home
to change his clothes.

By this time his money was almost all gone
and by the time he purchased his ticket he would be very short of funds.

The journey was a great pleasure to Fred as he had never rode on the cars in his life.
He spent most of the time looking out of the windows especially in the country for he liked to see the waving fields.

of grain and the cattle in the pasture.

It was about a 6 hour run from the City to Forestrill and there was no change of cars.

But Fred would not have cared if it was a
weeks tour.

He made up his mind to take a long trip some day. It was nearing one o'clock the time to arrive in Forestrill.

and as the train pulled in he saw his friend James waiting for him.

After they had greeted each other they walked to the street
as they were about to cross Fred saw a small boy let go his fathers hand and run into the street Fred who was experienced in crowded streets noticed a heavy wagon coming down the street at a good rate
he saw the child trip in an instant Fred was in the street

caught and pulled him out of the path of the approaching
wagon

The Father also had leaped into the street to save the child
but he stumbled and fell.

For a few seconds
he kept his eyes closed thinking to see the boy dead in the street

He was awakened by a shout and his little son
ran to him.

James who had been a witness to the heroick deed was now trying to recognize the man.
"Why its Mr. Green."
Mr. Green, meet my new Friend Fred
Norman. Mr. Green
shook both these hands heartly
and invited them to dine at his house
the next
Evening.
