THE HOUSE OF INTERUPTION Continued From Last Week

CHAPTER TWO
THE HOUSE

But to-day it didnt seem so hard and the third house they looked at Mr. Squgee the owner was very anxious to rent his house . Mr. Squgee was Rosdales noted skinflint and although he owned much property he lived in a miserable old shanty and worked in his garden. The house Mr. Squgee had to rent was a large barn looking apartment with a large porch, half falling steps and large dirty panes of glass in the windows. It looked as if it had not ben inhabited at least for twenty years. There were four or five pine trees near the house which gave it a dismal look and the rusteling of the wind through them at night sounded not unlike the groans and moans of goasts.

Mother Fraser did not like the appearance of the place but Mr. Fraser said if they wanted to live in Rosedale they must put up with this house. It didnt take the famly long to get into the house and the children were chattering merrily over the fine times they would have on futrue occasions. The furnitue had arived and the whole famly was occopuyed in putting the house in order and even Sam had no chance to experiment. It was another whote week before the Fraser famly was again fairly wel setteled in the house and all were very tired. Even the children were not so lively as they had been at the Rosedale House.

Mr. Fraser worked in the office department of the Rosedale Manfg. Co. And Grandpa Fraser began bulding a coop for chickens .

It was only two weeks later that when all were at the dinner tabel Bill who had been down town and visited the Post Office brought in a letter and the whole famly was excited as Mrs. Fraser said it was ant Marthas writing. The letter contained an announcement the children were delighted . The announcement said that little Jim and Florence were coming to visit them. The children knew little Jim and Floence to be two very good chums as they had visited them before and they had a great time. The evening train pulled in a few days later carrying little Jim and Florence, the whole famly was there to meet them except Maggy the cat who had a sore paw .

How THE BOYS LEFT CANADA

By MISS M. SMITH OF

N.S. CANADA.

Gazette 1917

To the editor of the Gazette, Detroit, Mich.

In your last issue you wished all patronizers of your paper to write an article pertaining to war. I am not in favor of war. Military training in Public schools should not be allowed.

In Canada they have in schools little boys from ten years and upwards compelled to learn training and on certain days they all parade in the streets. They have commenced those things only since the war broke out. In Queens Co. Nova Scotia there were 300 boys left for France.

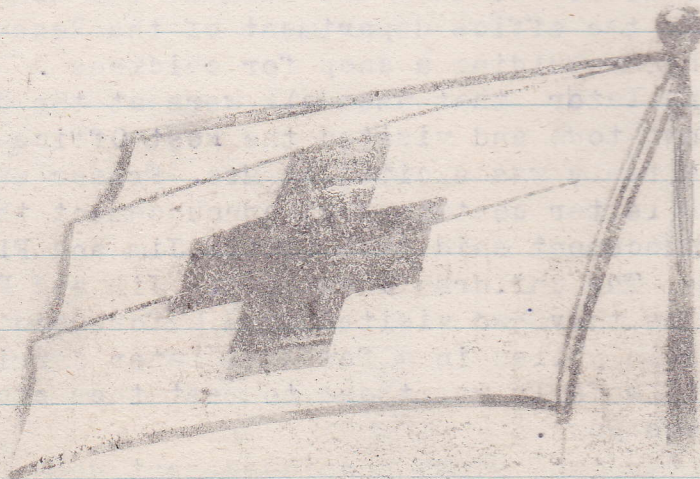

The county of Queens has the population of about 2,000 persons.

Some of these boys were to go to the front while others had joined the medical core. If any of these boys refuse to join they are laughed and jeered at some of them cannot stand this and they join.

As I have not any more space and am afraid I have taken up too much space of your paper. I will give up for this time.

Yours very truly

Marion Smith

A. Stand on Public School
Way TRAINING
By ROBERT STEVENS

To the editor April 14, 1917

In regards to the compulsory Military training in the public schools, I am opposed to it, I think it should all be volintere, it should not be in connection with the public schools, Every city should have a public school for boys at a certain age if they cared to take it and that should be every Saturday Morning, then it would not interfere with the education of the education of the public schools.

Yours truly.
